

Université d'Artois

Arras

PROFILE

The Université d'Artois currently has an enrollment of 14,400 students. Spread over several campuses, the Université d'Artois serves a number of medium-sized French cities that are undergoing significant changes. With locations in Arras, Béthune, Douai, Lens, and Liévin, the university has established itself as a force for community improvement. It provides a welcoming and stimulating environment in which to learn and grow. Partly because of its size, the Université d'Artois is an accessible yet thoroughly modern and dynamic institution that is responding to a changing educational system by offering innovative programs that artfully combine academic knowledge and practical skills.

As a comprehensive university, Artois offers a wide range of degree programs from 2-year undergraduate degrees to doctoral degrees for traditional students as well as adult learners in the following fields:

- Humanities
- Law, economics, and management
- Sciences and technology
- Physical education and athletics

Through its teacher training institute (the IUFM Nord-Pas-de-Calais) and in cooperation with other universities in the area, the Université d'Artois prepares teachers for the Nord-Pas-de-Calais region.

Main programmes of study

- Humanities (literature, performing arts, languages, history and geography)
- Law, economics, and management
- Sciences and technology (mathematics, computer science, physics, chemistry, biology, civil engineering, industrial engineering, logistics, electrical engineering)
- Physical education and athletics
